BARBARIANS MUST NOT GET CONTROL OF THE EARTH

Copyrighted 1942

BY ALFRED LAWSON

UNLESS YOU KNOW THESE THINGS YOU ARE NOT EDUCATED

The earth is but a cog in the solar machine which in turn is but a minute part of the eternal machinery which extends throughout SPACE.

To get an idea of the extensiveness of unbounded SPACE the mind must get away from petty mundane influences and make exploration tours among the different formations of the cosmic regions.

Through powerful telescopes man can now see far out into SPACE and by the use of mathematics he can survey the heavens with considerable accuracy.

LAWSONOMY, which is the knowledge of life and everything that pertains thereto, has taught man the difference in Densities, Spheres and Scope to such an extent that its scholars are actually thinking thousands of years in advance of the theoretical students who attend the universities of today.

The farther one has been mis-educated in the old school of theory, however, the more difficult it is to grasp the natural facts of LAWSONOMY.

If it is not truth it is not Lawsonomy.

A difference in density demonstrates that matter has been separated into various forms of mass and volume in which mass occupies lesser space and volume occupies greater space.

The difference in mass and volume is caused by the difference in the proportions of the different elements entering into the different substances thereof. Thus air and water are of different densities caused by the difference in proportions of the different elements that compose them.

It is not difficult for man to understand the difference in density of air and water because they come within his range of vision, but, there are other densities that do not come within man's sight which appears beyond his capacity to grasp.

For instance, light, heat, electricity, sound and mentality are all substances of different densities that man must understand before he is educated.

There are none so ignorant as those who will not learn. So the few who will learn the truths of LAWSONOMY must do the thinking for those who will not give the effort to study it.

The difference in density causes Penetrability with its everlasting changeability and movement of matter.

For instance, heat, as one density, mixes with water of another density causing vapor as another density.

Then, because of the power of suction located within the Earth's crust the greater densities of water and air are pulled toward the center of the earth which force the lesser density vapor to rise above them.

But, as the vapor rises to the cooler altitudes its heat is drawn from it by the lesser density cold which leaves the greater density water above the lesser density air.

Then the pull of the earth's suction causes a pressure that creates an explosion and disintegration of elements from which emanates the different densities, water, light, sound, heat and electricity, which are drawn back to the earth again.

Such transformations prove that the force that moves matter from place to place and causes it to change from one density to another is SUCTION and PRESSURE.

A FORMATION is a collection of substances that takes a definite shape.

Formations are the VEHICLES of movement.

CURRENTS are made up of formations surrounding which are spaces or crevices through which flow currents of lesser density.

Currents are the AVENUES of movement.

There are as many different kinds of currents in density as there are grades of substances but man so far has only become familiar with currents of air, gas, water, heat, light, ether and electricity. To which I have added currents of SOUND and MENTALITY, as well as having pointed out that there are numberless atomic and cosmic currents of different density of which man has not become conscious of as yet.

The Earth is a formation, and, according to LAWSONOMY was begun as a bubble of empty space which created a vacuum that attracted flying debris toward it.

This debris ground itself into heated gases by friction as it swirled around and around the vacuum.

These gases were forced outward to allow the continuous arrival of new solids to move closer to the vacuum and when the gases reached a lower temperature they contracted into a solid crust that enclosed the swirling contents therein.

On the outside of this crust an atmosphere of lesser density was formed which acted as a barrier against the flying debris striking the solid covering of the globe.

The clash between the solid debris and the Earth's atmosphere causes friction and heat that burns up solids and expands them into gases before they can reach the surface. These gases are then drawn through the pores of the Earth's shell in continuous streams for nourishment and evacuation.

The attraction of weighty substances by the power of Suction towards the center of the Earth is what the earlier experimenters called gravitation.

As the superfluous gases within the crust of the Earth ooze through its pores it mixes with the elements from air, water and sun rays which create vegetation.

Vegetation was the first organic life to be introduced upon the Earth by the Menorgs and their original design was a single blade of grass.

But long periods of time passed between the production of the first blade of grass and the creation of the first animal.

From time to time, as nature needed them the Menorgs produced such primitive animals as worms, insects, fish, snakes and birds in ever increasing numbers and complexity.

Millions of different species of animals were produced upon Earth to absorb the ever increasing numbers of variegated plants.

Extended periods passed from the time when the first lower animal was developed and the time when the first man was designed.

It was a very crude thing that the Menorgs first produced as man, but they continued to improve him as time went along with the object in view of constantly increasing his intelligence and enlarging his consciousness until eventually it is expected that he will become acceptable in the sight of GOD.

The entire machinery of a human being is built into the microscopic seed and then gradually enlarged by drawing into it by Suction new substances and casting out of it by Pressure waste matter.

So the Menorgs build up man from within from substances they draw in from without. They extract their building materials from different densities from which they take particles of light, heat, cold, sound, electricity, mentality and various gases and mold them together as a large workable formation.

They combine these microscopic particles of lesser density into forms of greater density. They make solid matter by contracting volume into mass.

There is nothing mysterious about the construction and operation of a human being, so it is lazy ignorance to live without knowledge of the machine that carries one through this earthly existence.

A physiological description of a human being is published in my book PENETRABILITY which everybody should understand.

As man increased his knowledge he became an accumulative creature and began to hoard up for individual aggrandizement the vegetable and mineral supplies of the Earth.

Such accumulation of the materials of the Earth led to greed, misrepresentation, thievery and murder as each individual tried to get possession of what others produced. But the trickiest creatures eventually got control of the Earth's materials and enslaved the peoples of different countries through despotic dictatorship.

The dictators of the different states then went to war with each other in order to get control of greater quantities of the Earth's materials until finally the whole Eastern Hemisphere turned into nations of murderous barbarians who periodically fought each other for possession of the loot.

There were, however, intelligent men from the Eastern Hemisphere who wanted to enjoy the freedom of government that would allow them a voice in the management of their own affairs and they emigrated to the Western Hemisphere and set up the American Form of Government in which the freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of press, freedom of religion and race friendship prevailed.

Because the most intelligent men and women from all countries came to the Western Hemisphere and intermarried they developed in America the leading thinkers of the world who produced such inventions as the steam boat, telegraph, telephone, electric light, automobile, airplane, flying boat, airliner and many other useful things for humanity that were copied by the barbarians and used to a large extent in their murderous warfare.

Barbarians are not inventors but they copy everything Americans produce that they can make use of themselves and so they bought up every kind of war machine that was made in this country.

Barbarians are tricky and treacherous and they pretended to be very friendly with Americans and promised that they would never attack them in warfare. They told the Americans that they should live in peace and that it would not be necessary to arm themselves for warfare.

So the peace-crazed and money-mad people of America sold to the barbarians all of the warships, guns, airplanes and war materials that they needed with which they finally turned upon them with savage cruelty and killed and maimed thousands of their finest men when they were not looking with the very war machinery and materials that Americans had furnished them.

Furthermore, when the barbarians finally attacked the Americans they had the advantage of many years of war preparation and practical experience and by striking without warning they killed and maimed thousands of splendid Americans that could have been saved had not the peace-mongers kept the United States of America unprepared for just such a catastrophe.

Now, a state of war exists between the barbarians, who want to enslave mankind and control the materials of the Earth as Dictators, and the democratic peoples of the world who want a voice in the management of themselves, such as is now afforded by the Free American Government.

However, if the democratic people are going to contest with the barbarians for supremacy with the same sort of war machines as they now use then the war is liable to be extended for many years duration and millions of useful men will be killed that could otherwise be saved.

So, as it was the thinking Americans who invented the present destructive war implements and taught the barbarians how to use them, it is the thinking Americans who must now introduce a higher grade method of stopping these barbarians from further killing their people.

There are methods of warfare as far in advance of the present pop-guns, tanks, warships and flying bombers as these present fighting machines are in advance of the spears and sling-shots formerly used by the barbarians.

Unfortunately, however, those who reach the top of the ladder in any adopted procedure invariably frown upon any newer method that is offered by some advanced thinker and therefore many years pass before the world is allowed to have use of it.

As the writer spent the years from 1908 to 1931 in strenuously advocating the introduction of an Aircraft Industry, he fully realizes the difficulties to be met with now in making the topnotchers understand the tremendous advantage that can be gained by the utilization of the numerous forces of solarly to overpower the barbarians.

But, come what may, the barbarians must not only be overpowered but they must be completely disarmed and forever barred from using weapons with which to kill or maim the freedom loving people of the world. Under no circumstances must these barbarians get control of the earth, its people, its materials, its industries and its various institutions for their own degraded purposes. The world must not go backward. It must go forward as the Creator intends it to go.

Mankind must advance to a higher state of intelligence by following the humane principles set forth in the three books of LAWSONOMY which advocates the program of "Justice for everybody that harms nobody."
